Namosi eco-retreat provides guests with an authentic Fijian experience, combining culture and adventure with agri-tourism, at the reconstructed Fijian village from last centure. Namosi Eco Retreat is not a village tour and not a resort. It is an “unplugged” experience offering visitors the chance to get back to basics of life (no internet, phone or electronic equipment except a solar-powered emergency phone and lighting).

The remote location in the Namosi highlands (2 hours inland from Suva) is surrounded by misty mountains and the sparkling, chilled Luva River.

The retreat is a reconstructed, traditional village comprising 10 authentic-style Fijian Bures and the large dining hall (Valenikana), all handcrafted by local people using Fijian building methods and materials.
