On behalf of the Asbestos Disease Awareness Organization (ADAO), I have the opportunity to frequently speak to Congress, health care providers, national and international organizations, and families about the deadly legacy of asbestos and the urgent need for a global asbestos ban. However, one of the most frequent questions I am asked is: “What exactly does your organization do?” Today, I would like to answer that question and provide a better idea of what ADAO does, from a typical day in the office to our long-term goals.
