Strange Software has designed and implemented a new website for a local community choir, giving details of forthcoming and past concerts, contact and background information. The site features our web-based content management software (CMS) that allows non-technical users to easily post news, reviews, diary entries and other items on the site and to keep it up-to-date. In particular, the Site Manager includes a database of concerts and venues which is used to automatically format pages with upcoming events as well as a list of previous performances. The concert database includes title, venue and dates, an editable programme of the music to be performed, descriptive text and entries for performers, booking and ticket details and an optional link to further information or a related website.
