Bund.de is the gateway to the services and online information of the German Federal Administration and other public agencies. Whereas the German version is focussing on frequently used services like job offerings in the public sector or lists of public tenders, we follow a more general approach in the English version. Bearing in mind that the user of the English version is likely to live abroad we try to give more general information about our country as well as special information about administrative structures and e-government services that are available through the internet.
