Helping each family navigate their individual experience, at Davis we provide tailored guidance and support to those dealing with loss. Whether it’s pre-planning one’s own departure, or navigating a loved one lost, we help people curate meaningful goodbyes, build lasting memories from grief, and deal professionally with all the practicalities of death. We have collective lifetimes of experience, over more than 80 years. We have supported so many families through this process from all walks of life, each with their own set of needs. But what never changes, is that each time we honour a life as unique as the memories and families left in their wake.
