Floor sanding and polishing is a process that involves the removal of the top layer of a wooden floor to reveal a fresh layer of wood that is then polished to restore its natural shine and beauty. Over time, wooden floors can become dull and scratched due to wear and tear, heavy foot traffic, and exposure to the elements. However, floor sanding and polishing can help to revive the appearance of the floors, making them look brand new again.

The process of Melbourne floor sanding involves using a specialized machine to sand down the surface of the floor, removing any scratches, stains, and imperfections. This process can take several passes with different grades of sandpaper to achieve the desired smoothness and finish. Once the sanding is complete, the floor is then thoroughly cleaned and prepared for polishing.
