Tomorrow's Stars Basketball was founded back in 2000 by ex-NBL professional Brett Rainbow who knew exactly how he wanted to give back to the game that had been so very good to him. We aim to provide a balanced training environment where the transfer of knowledge, the execution of skills and personal satisfaction are key ingredients to our students' individual and team success. Our mission; to create a new style of basketball player that captures the very essence of the sport and will ensure its sustainability here in Australia. We achieve this through effective, game-driven training and coaching techniques, we can accomplish this mission for each and every player we work with.
