Coastal Carolina Comfort is more than just a heating, ventilation, and air conditioning (HVAC) company – it’s a family legacy driven by passion and expertise. Derrick Hall, the owner, started his journey in the HVAC industry at the age of 18, starting as a Technician Assistant and working his way to Installation Manager. This formative experience became the cornerstone of his extensive knowledge in the trade. Inspired by a family tradition, Derrick felt the HVAC calling deep in his blood. His grandfather, a skilled tradesman, imparted invaluable knowledge, making him realize that the combination of plumbing, electrical work, wiring, and carpentry in HVAC would never cease to be an exciting learning experience.
