As an FGIA/AAMA accredited testing laboratory, QED LAB is dedicated to maintaining independence in all our operations. We are a professional field testing agency that specializes exclusively in testing and diagnostic services. Our primary focus is on delivering precise evaluations of products and systems. With our nationally recognized accreditation as an independent, impartial, and objective testing agency, you can trust that you’re receiving a qualified and unbiased third-party assessment. QED LAB is your reliable partner for AAMA accredited testing, whether on your project site or in our lab. For additional consulting services, please explore Qualified Enclosure Consultants, where we offer a comprehensive range of solutions.
