Techtimia Engineering Pte. Ltd is a Singapore-based engineering company providing reliable mechanical, electrical, and specialised engineering services for commercial, industrial, and building-related projects. With an experienced team and a practical understanding of site requirements, we support clients with solutions that are planned, executed, and maintained with care.

Our services cover a wide range of engineering needs, including ACMV and HVAC services, pump services, air balancing, cooling tower maintenance, aircon services, cold room services, electrical services, CNC machining, AHU, FCU and blower services, water tank installation, welding works, duct fabrication, UV light installation and other related engineering works.

We work closely with clients to understand their operational needs, project requirements, and service expectations before recommending suitable solutions. Whether it is installation, maintenance, repair, fabrication, or system support, our approach is focused on dependable workmanship, clear communication, and long-term performance.

At Techtimia Engineering Pte. Ltd, we value teamwork, technical knowledge, and continuous improvement. Our goal is to deliver engineering services that help businesses maintain safe, efficient, and well-functioning systems across Singapore.
