At Air Sense Environmental, we are a team of trained and licensed professionals dedicated to protecting the health of families across Illinois by providing thorough indoor air quality solutions. Our primary focus is on managing and eliminating the risks associated with radon contamination, a naturally occurring, unseen gas that can pose a serious health threat. Our service model is built on expertise, efficiency, and trust, starting with a free in-home estimate and ending with a post-mitigation test to verify lasting results. We handle every step of the process, from initial, accurate assessment to the final verification test, ensuring a clear, effective, and hassle-free solution, because the air in your home is our top priority.
