Silvertip Wash Co. was built from discipline, resilience, and a deep pride in doing work that delivers visible results. My journey began when I left home to pursue collegiate hockey, an experience that shaped my work ethic, accountability, and standards. While away at school, I worked with professional window cleaning and Christmas light installation companies. It was there I developed an appreciation for craftsmanship — the satisfaction of transforming a property, the value of teamwork, and the pride that comes from doing a job properly. After returning home, I made the difficult decision to hang up the skates and channel that same drive into building something of my own. Armed with little more than determination, consistency, and a squeegee, I knocked on doors, earned trust one customer at a time, and committed to delivering results that spoke for themselves. What started as a one-man operation has grown into a trusted exterior cleaning company proudly serving Calgary and surrounding communities. Today, Silvertip Wash Co. works with homeowners, property managers, and major home builders, providing professional window cleaning, house washing, pressure washing, gutter cleaning, and seasonal lighting services. Our philosophy remains unchanged: take pride in the details, respect every property, and never compromise on quality. When we leave a job, the goal is simple — your home looks exceptional, and you feel confident you chose the right company.
